PHILIP, MY KING.

"Look at me, with thy large brown eyes,
Philip, my king!
For round thee the purple shadow lies,
Of babyhood's regal dignities.
Lay on my neck thy tiny hand
With love's invisible sceptre laden;
I am thine Esther, to command,
Till thou shalt find thy queen hand-maiden,
Philip, my king!

"Oh! the day when thou goest a wooing,
Philip, my king!
When those beautiful lips are suing,
And some gentle heart's bars undoing,
Thou dost enter love crowned, and there
Sittest all glorified!—Rule kindly,
Tenderly over thy kingdom fair,
For we that love, ah! we love so blindly,
Philip, my king!

"I gaze from thy sweet mouth up to thy brow,
Philip, my king!
Ay, there lies the spirit, all sleeping now,
That may rise like a giant, and make men bow
As to one god-throned amidst his peers.
My soul than thy brethren higher and fairer,
Let me behold thee in coming years!
Yet thy head needeth a circlet rarer,
Philip, my king!

"A wreath, not of gold, but palm, one day,
Philip, my king!
Thou, too, must tread, as we tread, a way
Thorny, and bitter, and cold, and gray;
Rebels within thee, and foes without
Will snatch at thy crown. But go on, glorious
Martyr, yet monarch! till angels shout
As thou sittest at the feet of God, victorious,
'Philip, the king!'"

WIT AND HUMOR.

ANECDOTE OF SIDNEY SMITH.—Nothing was more odious to Sidney Smith than forward priggism. One evening, at a dinner party, he was excessively annoyed by the familiarity of a young fop, who constantly addressed him as as "Smith—Smith, pass that wine," and so forth. Presently the young gentleman stated that he had received an invitation to dine with the Bishop of London, and asked the reverend cannon "what sort of a fellow" he was.

"A very good sort of a fellow, indeed," replied the satirist; only let me give you a piece of advice—don't call him Howley."

This rebuff vastly amused the company, but the object of it being a fool at all points, did not see this point, and talked on in happy unconsciousness. Soon after one of the company rose to depart, pleading an engagement to a soiree at Gore House.

"Take me with you," roared young Hopeful, "I've the greatest possible desire to know Lady Blessington."

This request was very naturally demurred to, on the ground that a visitor was not authorized to introduce uninvited guests.

"Oh!" said Sidney Smith, never mind; I am sure that her Ladyship will be delighted to see our young friend; the weather's uncommonly hot, and you can say that you have brought with you the cool of the evening.

PUZZLING A DOCTOR.

Dr. M., an army surgeon, was very fond of a joke, (if not perpetrated at his own expense,) and had moreover a great contempt for citizen officers, who were renowned more for their courage than their scholarship.

One day at mess, when the decanter had performed sundry strange perambulations of the table, Captain S., a brave and accomplished officer, and a great wag, remarked to the doctor who had been very severe in his remarks on the literary deficiency of some of the new officers.

"Dr. M., are you acquainted with Captain G——?"

"Yes, I know him well," replied the Doctor, "he is one of the new set. But what of him?"

"Nothing in particular," returned Captain S. "I have just received a letter from him, and I'll wager you a dozen bottles of old port that you can't guess in six guesses how he spells cat."

"Done," said the Doctor, "its wager." "Well commence guessing," said captain S. "K, a, double t." "No." "K, a, t, e." "No; try again." "C, a, double t, e." "No; you've missed it again." "Well, then," returned the Doctor, "C, a, double t." "No, that's not the way; try again—it's your last guess." "C, a, g, h, t." "No, that's not the way, you've lost the wager."—"Well" said the Doctor, with much petulence of manner "how does he spell it?" "Why he spells it c, a, t," replied S., with the utmost gravity, amid the roars of the mess.

Almost chooking with rage the the Doctor sprang to his feet, exclaiming; "Captain S., I am too old a man to be trifled with in this manner."

A WESTERN HAND.

A correspondent tells a good story, although at somewhat too great length, (a common fault,) of a Western steamboat captain who hired, "off hand," a shiftless fellow, at one of the ports on the river, to go as a hand on board one of his boats to New Orleans, for forty dollars and found; giving him in advance five dollars to supply an urgent present necessity. The new hand was to be on board in the morning before the first chicken crowed; but he never made his appearance.

Long after, the captain discovered him at a wooding station, jumped ashore, collared the dishonest hand, and asked him the reason why he had not kept the engagement.

"What was the terms?" asked the fellow, with the utmost coolness and indifference.

"Forty dollars a month and found," replied the captain; "you know the terms perfectly well."

"Very well," replied the recusant, "did you find me?"

That was a poser! The captain hadn't found him until now, although he had looked for him at every port and stopping place, on all the rivers he had traversed.

CITY OF CHICAGO:

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 4, 1854.

[illegible]

[illegible] EDMUND BURKE [illegible]

The Boston Atlas, which is an able and zealous opponent of Senator Douglas' Nebraska scheme, in a recent number publishes an article from the pen of Edmund Burke, of New Hampshire, who is an equally open, avowed and self-consistent supporter of the measure. In this article we can but commend the honest and manly fashion in which he comes out and avows his principles and ends. He wages no creeping, skulking or dodging guerilla warfare. He meets the consequences fairly, and looks its results right in the face. He admits what no one can with any pretence deny, that inasmuch as Slavery was the law of the land in the Louisiana territory before the passage of the Missouri Compromise, the repeal of that law revives and re-establishes Slavery,—in a word, restores the original condition of things as they existed before its passage. He says:

"The Nebraska bill, if it shall pass both Houses of Congress and become a law, repeals the Missouri Compromise. And what will be the effect of such repeal? Unquestionably, to revive and re-establish Slavery over that whole region.—When Louisiana was ceded to the United States, the law of slavery existed over that whole vast territory. It required no law to establish the institution—it then existed in fact and by law. And out of that territory already three slave states have been carved and admitted into the Union, viz: Louisiana, Arkansas and Missouri. When they came into the possession of the Union as territories, Slavery had been planted and was flourishing upon their soil; and the whole territory of Louisiana was under the dominion of the law which established and legalized the institution. Therefore, when these States came into the Union, the people did not have to establish and ordain Slavery. The Missouri Compromise repealed and abolished the institution above the line of 36° 30. The repeal of that Compromise revives and re-establishes Slavery in all the remaining territory of the Louisiana purchase. Therefore the law which permits Slavery will be revived, and Slavery will exist in Nebraska and Kansas the very moment the Nebraska bill receives the sanction of the President. This is the only deduction that can be legally drawn from the premises.

"The proposition, therefore, which the Northern men are to look fully in the face, and to meet without the possibility of evasion, is this: Shall Slavery be revived and re-established in Nebraska and Kansas? And, as a necessary consequence, shall the Slave States regain that political preponderance in the Senate of the United States which they have lost by the more rapid multiplication, of late, of free States? These are the propositions which Northern men must meet, and which it is impossible for them now to dodge or evade."

Here we have it, in refreshing frankness and boldness. Here is one at least of the clique of Douglas, Pierce & Co., who is honest in his villainy. He does not mince matters in the least, but boldly tells the Democrats of the North that when they give their sanction to the Nebraska bill, they not only permit, but absolutely establish Slavery in the whole of that magnificent territory, large enough to make a dozen States. If every one of the supporters of this bill were as honest as Edmund Burke is, we should have less trouble in showing up its iniquity, and its evil. They would, like Paixhan guns, speak for themselves. But Mr. Douglas and [illegible] may congratulate themselves on the fact that Edmund Burke is almost the only honest man they have in their ranks. Even he is [illegible] many, and his manly truthfulness is anything but palatable to the honorable Senator. There are reasons, plenty as blackberries, why it should be so. It raises the curtain too soon. It is a premature revelation of the real [illegible] of the case. It may, and it does, damage the fraud to acknowledge its inevitable consequences. So much and so keenly does Senator Douglas feel this, that he writes to Concord, to the editor of the Patriot there, and declares that the author of the above extract "is an enemy to the bill and to the great principle involved in it, and to its friends; and that he has assumed the garb of friendship in order to destroy, by fatal admissions," &c. &c.

"Fatal admissions," indeed! No wonder you wish to suppress them! No wonder, Mr. Douglas, you seek by smooth and specious, but not very plausible sophistries, to argue that the repeal of a law does not necessarily revive and re-establish the enactments it repealed.

In this quibbling, pettifogging, and dishonest attempt to neutralize the damaging effect of Mr. Burke's honest admissions, Mr. Douglas adds:

"May we not safely leave them to form and regulate their domestic institutions in the same manner and by virtue of the same principle which enabled New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, to exclude Slavery from their limits, and establish free institutions for themselves."

Now this is very ingenious, but very specious. Let it be remembered that the States of Delaware, Missouri, Kentucky, Virginia, and Maryland, are all in about the same latitude with Nebraska, and are all north of the line of 36° 30'. Did the same principle then, which Mr. Douglas asserts enabled Pennsylvania and New York to exclude Slavery, keep Slavery out of the five States we have just named? It is idle to advance such sophistry. It is worse than idle to say that the Southern members of Congress do not expect slavery to go to Nebraska. [illegible] St. Louis papers are telling their readers that they have made a final [illegible] not to already have spied expeditions to enter Nebraska, and that the company now being raised in this city, under Captain Gibbs, is an anti-slavery move. They see clearly enough that a Chicago colony will be anything but a pro-slavery one. They call Chicago the "hot-bed of Abolitionism," and and they are very certain that two hundred voters going from the Garden City would count badly against the two hundred and fifty [illegible] already there. Why should they concern themselves because voters who are anti-slavery men are going there, if they did not fear their adverse influence against the establishment of their "peculiar institution." But there is no reason why slavery should not go to Nebraska. The southern line of Nebraska is in parallel latitude with the northern line of Tennessee and North Carolina. Its climate and its productions will be the same as those of the five States we have named. Yet in these States, at the last census, there were eight hundred and sixty-five thousand slaves, in spite of all these imaginary disadvantages of climate and productions. More than one fourth of all the slaves in the United States are, at this very moment north of 36° 30', and yet Mr. Douglas has the hardihood to insult the intelligence of a New England population [illegible] pretence that slavery is excluded from Nebraska by "laws of climate and productions and physical geography."

[illegible] Vote on the Nebraska [illegible].—The following representatives of Indiana will vote against the Douglas bill:—[illegible], Daniel Mace, E. W. Parker, A. J. Harlan, and J. H. Lane. Both Senators and six Representatives will vote for it.

OUR LEGISLATURE AT ST. LOUIS.

Our State Legislature, in compliance with an invitation from St. Louis, visited that city on the 1st inst. The day was exceedingly unpropitious, a drizzling rain falling all day, which put quite a damper on the merriment of the occasion. The Legislature arrived at St. Louis, in the steamer St. Paul, from Alton, and were received by the city military and the citizens of St. Louis, who had assembled on the levee, in great numbers. As the boat came in sight Captain Almstedt's artillery fired gun after gun, which, added to the call of the trumpet and rattle of the drum, gave animation to the scene. A large number of carriages were in attendance. The guests were seated in these, and the procession formed and moved up the levee. The display made by the military was excellent, considering the horrible state of the weather. The procession passed up Olive street to Main, down Main to Chesnut and finally to the Court House. The Mayor and Common Council were already there to extend the hospitalities of the city, and exchange the usual compliments on such occasions. The guests, committees, &c., being all assembled, R. S. Elliot, Esq., mounted the rostrum and called the assemblage to order. Mr. Henry T. Blow then introduced to Mayor How the Lieutenant Governor of Illinois, the members of the Legislature, the judiciary, and other officers. On which Mr. How welcomed them cordially to the city, in the name of the Council and the citizens at large. The Mayor spoke at length, dwelling on the unity of interests of Illinois and Missouri, and on the desirableness of a cordial understanding. He was interrupted by frequent and loud applause. Lieutenant Governor Koerner replied in behalf of the distinguished guests. He thanked the Mayor for the kind reception extended to the Illinois delegation, and hoped, as he believed, that both States would go hand in hand for the future, the improvements and advantages of one resulting beneficially to both. The remarks of the Lieutenant Governor were in the best spirit, and were received with warm enthusiasm. Ex-Governor Reynolds was next called to the stand, and entertained the audience with a rousing discourse, of the stump speech order, which from beginning to end was received with demonstrations of the best humor and greatest satisfaction. At the conclusion, some one above called out—"six cheers for the old veteran"—and six cheers were given in the heartiest, most approved kind of style.

The Legislature visited the harbor improvements, etc., on the morning of the next day, and had a grand dinner given them by the citizens, in the Mercantile Library Hall at 4 o'clock and a ball at the Varieties Theatre at 8 o'clock.

ANTI-NEBRASKA MEETING.

A large mass convention, composed of persons from all parties, was held at South Bend, Ind., on the 22th, to consider the Nebraska question. Strong resolutions were reported against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and passed with but one dissenting voice. A Mr. Dougias offered a series of resolutions, sustaining Judge Douglas, but he was the only person in the whole convention who stood up, when the chairman requested all those who favored his resolutions to take that position. The Convention also appointed a committee to wait upon Dr. Eddy, the representative in Congress from that district, and request him to give his reasons to the convention for concluding to vote for Judge Douglas' bill; but he declined. Throughout Northern Indiana there is an almost perfect unanimity of sentiment against the Nebraska outrage, and yet their representative in Congress will vote for it!—Doubtless he has rewards for his servility promised him by the President, who is aiding Douglas with all the patronage of his office.

MR. COULDOCK, THE TRAGEDIAN.

This gentleman will open an engagement at our Theatre on Monday evening, probably in Richelieu. Since his former appearance here, Mr. C. has been playing very brilliant engagements in the Canadian cities, and in the principal towns and cities of the South and East. We have marked the almost unparalleled success which he has met with in these places, with great satisfaction. We have observed, from time to time, in all of our exchanges from the towns in which he has played, critiques of his merits as an actor, which have doubly confirmed us in the high opinion which we have formed of him, and which we have so frequently expressed. The Union Observer of the 8th of February, in a long editorial, extols his Macbeth as a complete triumph, and says that "the large audience which were present were held in entrancement; hundreds who had often read the play, confessed that never before had they so fully appreciated the prodigious power and beauty of this masterpiece of the Bard of Avon." The Richmond (Va.) Bulletin of the 18th February, says of him:

"His style is true to nature: simple, easy and graceful, and unaffected; his reading clear and accurate, and his conception of the intention of the author always correct. But what we most admire in Mr. Couldock is his contempt of claptrap, stage trick, and all that sort of thing, to which 'able' actors often resort, for the purpose of giving effect to their delineations. Neither does he mouth his words, rant, or tear passion to tatters, as some of the knights of the buskin are wont to do."

Not too Late.—The friends of Covington [illegible] have induced him to consent to stand for Alderman of the First Ward. This is a nomination "fit to be made," and if he is not elected, the voters of the ward will not consult their own interests.

Doct. Boone has also consented to stand for Alderman in the Second Ward. The Doctor is an old member, with much experience, and would make an excellent Alderman.

Spring.—A morning paper announces that "the Ides of March have come." When we went to school we were taught that the Ides referred to the fifteenth day of March, May, July, and October, and the thirteenth of every other month. Our cotemporary however, very probably reckons by a New Style.

Ragged Schools.—We have received several numbers of a little paper, published in New York, and entitled the "Ragged School Reporter." We have read them with much pleasure. The object of the publication, is to call public attention to the sufferings and necessities of the destitute and abandoned children of New York. We understand that there is a movement on foot in our own city, to establish similar institutions in Chicago. That such a move is needed, and that it will be productive of very great good, if properly carried out, can not be well doubted. Of the existence in great numbers of such a deplorable class of children, even in our own happy city, no intelligent man needs proof. The witnesses are too painfully numerous. We cannot walk out of our office for five minutes, without observing them. By day and by night, in the streets and in the alleys we daily meet children who spend their days either in begging charity, or in perfect idleness, festering like ulcer spots upon the fair bosom of our Garden City. Out of these children society draws its criminals, for them industry is taxed, and by them security to person, life, and property is placed in jeopardy. But it is not absolutely necessary that any such state of things should exist, particularly in a Western city. These children can be reformed. These enemies, in embryo, of the public weal, can be converted into friends of peace, order, sobriety, and industry. By the effort and under the guidance of wise and benevolent hearts, good can be brought out of evil, the ragged and dirty children of our city can be clothed and cleansed, the foul weeds which now choke their minds can be rooted out, and good seed sown in the tender soil of their young hearts which will spring up, and in future time bring forth fruit, thirty, sixty, or an hundred fold. Wherever the experiment of Ragged Schools has been tried, in the right spirit, and with the requisite amount of perseverance, they have resulted in good. In many instances the beneficial results arising therefrom have far exceeded the most sanguine hopes of their warmest friends, and the boys and girls taken from poverty, destitution and crime have become ornaments to society and a blessing to the world.

We trust that the projectors of the system of "Ragged Schools" in Chicago, will not fail to carry out their plans. We will always be happy to render them any assistance in our power.

The Railroad Land Grants—A Morning's Work.—The Senate of the United States the other morning passed a number of bills, making grants of the public lands to certain railroads, as follows:—To Louisiana, for a railroad from Shreveport to Mississippi river; to Wisconsin, for a railroad from Madison to Mississippi river; to Iowa, for certain railroads therein; to Alabama, for a railroad from Georgia line, on Chattahoochie river, to the city of Mobile; to Alabama, for a railroad from Selma, on the Alabama river, to Gunter's landing on the Tennessee river, and a railroad from Memphis, on the Mississippi river, to connect with the Nashville and Charleston railroad; to California, for a railroad from San Francisco to San José, from Benicia to Marysville, from Sacramento city via Auburn to Nevada city, and from Stockton to Sonora; to Florida, for several railroads in that State was passed; to Arkansas, for a railroad from Gaines' landing on the Mississippi river, to the Texas boundary, near Fulton.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Carlington Castle. A Tale of the Jesuits. By C. G. H. [illegible] For sale by Danenhower, 123 Lake street. In paper 50c; in cloth 75c.

This book purports to be the story of an Irish Heiress, who became the object of the vindictive hatred of the Catholic priesthood. The author insists that it was true, having occurred in our own day, and in England. Be this as it may, the book is a thrilling picture of the sufferings and trials of one, whose tender frame might well have [illegible] population of horrors, had not an abiding faith and an exalted moral courage preserved her through her trials. It is impossible to become acquainted with instances of such lofty fortitude, as evinced by the heroine of this book, without a thrill of admiration; and it is also impossible to read of the atrocities and cruelties, both physical and mental, that were inflicted upon her, without a feeling of almost vehement indignation.

RE-ARREST OF THE MARTHA WASHINGTON CONSPIRATORS.

On Thursday morning last, the Martha Washington conspirators, namely, William Kissane, Captain Cummings, W. H. Holland, Amasa Chapin, Lorenzo Chapin, and Benjamin Burke, were arrested simultaneously at various points in Cincinnati, at about half past eight o'clock, on a warrant issued to the sheriff of Hamilton county by Gov. Medill, on a requisition from the Governor of Arkansas, in which it is set forth that these parties are guilty of the crimes of Arson and Murder, and are fugitives from justice. In the space of twenty-five minutes, these men were arrested, conveyed to an omnibus, which was in waiting near the Ross House, hand-cuffed, and on their way to Arkansas!

While these arrests were being made, Lyman Cole was taken at Oxford, and the probability is that during the day Adams Chapin was captured in northern Illinois, and is also at this time on his road to Phillips county, Arkansas.

The Cincinnati Commercial says in relation to this coup d'etat:

Officer Burton, [illegible] has the prisoners in charge. Kissane objected to entering the omnibus, but was forced into it. Heavy irons were prepared both for the hands and feet of the parties in limbo. Only the handcuffs were used in the omnibus. To give an idea of the secrecy with which this affair was conducted, we may state that we are informed there were in the Sheriff's office on Wednesday evening, and the Deputy Sheriffs notified that they were required to be on hand in the morning, but knew not for what purpose.

It is said that about the time of the termination of the Martha Washington trials, at Columbus, Mr. Burton received a communication from an inmate of one of the State penitentiaries, giving information which is judged to be of the utmost importance, but of the exact nature of which we have not been informed.

Burton went to work in his energetic style, and has since that time travelled at least fourteen thousand miles in prosecution of his investigations. He has been in South Carolina, Georgia, New York, Upper and Lower Canada, at Washington City and in Arkansas, working his own steady and inevitable way. Having procured the requisition from the Governor of Arkansas, he set about arranging the arrest of the parties charged with arson and murder. Burke arrested himself. In the mean time, by one of them, on a charge of perjury, was an interruption.

He arrived in this city on Tuesday night last, left the omnibus [illegible] Dennison House, and remained in his room until after the arrest of the Martha Washington men, when he appeared in the street.

Nothing could have been more unexpected to the Martha Washington individuals, than their arrest yesterday morning. When told that they were prisoners in the name of the State of Arkansas, their astonishment and consternation knew no bounds. The first intimation they had of Burton's [illegible], was in finding themselves suddenly together handcuffed, and huddled in the omnibus, in which they were driven away en route for Helena, Arkansas.

THE "HALLELUJAH."

Mr. Lowell Mason, the eminent composer of psalmody, is preparing a new book of Church Music, to be called The Hallelujah. Mr. Mason has not brought out any book (except the Musical Letters,) of which he was the sole author, since the publication of Carmina Sacra, in 1841. Over three hundred and fifty thousand copies of Carmina Sacra have been sold, and it has been more largely [illegible] than any similar publication. The books which in their day came nearest to a similar popularity were the Handel and Haydn Society's Collection, and the Boston Academy's Collection, both by Mr. Mason. [illegible] new book now nearly completed by Mr. Mason. He has for several years devoted much of his time to its preparation, during which he has spent eighteen months in Europe, under auspicious circumstances. [illegible] The Hallelujah will [illegible].—New York Tribune.

The London papers have an interesting item of intelligence from Egypt. They state that Mariette, a Frenchman, has at last succeeded in disengaging the long sought [illegible] into the [illegible]. The opening leads into beautiful marble rooms which are supposed to be connected by subterranean passages with similar chambers in the adjacent pyramids.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22, 1854.

Dear Sir: I was much pleased with an excellent editorial article in your paper on the "American Colonization Society," in reply to your correspondent "A. C." of January 23d, which was transferred to "Frederick Douglass' Paper," where I saw it. This is a subject in which I am exceedingly interested, and many years since took quite an active part in it, at a time when society was laboring under great difficulties and discouragements. I therefore profess to know what the views are of those who have labored disinterestedly in this cause, and sustained it through all its trials; and if the opponents of Colonization can point to more devotedness and self sacrifice to the interests of the African race than that exhibited by the early friends of African Colonization, who laid down their lives for the cause, as did Ashmun Mills, Buchanan, etc. etc. the noblest men of this of this or any land. I should like them to point them out; to stand at a distance and call hard names is a very easy matter, and then make a profession of being the exclusive friends of the African race; but to leave country, home and friends, all the endearments of society to meet certain death in a foreign land for the sake of an oppressed and down-trodden people, is quite another thing. In your remarks, therefore, you do no more than justice to the true friends of African Colonization. And I would ask, is it not strange that intelligent and well-meaning men, such as your correspondent "A. C." evidently is, should so misunderstand this matter. As a Colonizationist, I presume that I appreciate the efforts of Frederick Douglass and Samuel R. Ward as much as he does; both of them are men of unusual talent, and are doing good service for their race here, and I would by no means urge them to go to Liberia. The Colonization Society has many more applicants than it can take, and is therefore not so desirous of finding emigrants as of obtaining the means for defraying the necessary expenses of providing for the welfare of those seeking new homes, where they can breathe the air of freedom, under its auspices. Your correspondent objects to our colored population going to Africa because we want their labor here. In what capacity, let me ask him, do the American people wish their labor here? and for whose benefit? Is it to advance the interest of our colored population, or that of the whites? Are we willing to concede to them equal rights, social and political with our selves? or do we wish to keep them here as "hewers of wood and drawers of water" forever? That is the question that should be answered to our colored population to enable them to determine how far it is desirable for them to encourage a spirit of emigration or colonization. If we are willing to concede to them their just and equal rights in all respects—to admit them to all the higher positions in society and in the government, and thus encourage a noble ambition to be first among the foremost, it is very well. In that case but comparatively few will probably be found who desire to colonize Africa, except for the high motive of spreading civilization in that benighted continent, and emancipating millions of their brethren in bondage there. But if we wish to keep them here to fill the most menial occupations—as servants, waiters at hotels, barbers or boot blacks, how can A. C. and others, who profess so much friendship for our colored population, honestly oppose their colonization in Africa, where they can immediately breathe the air of freedom, and enjoy all the rights and privileges of nationality? But if the spirit of caste, and the prejudice of color or race, arising from a long period of servitude and degradation, were banished at once, would not the enterprising black man have quite as strong inducements for emigrating to Africa as our own countrymen have now in going to the Western States, to California, or Oregon, or Australia? and are those who are willing to aid them in so creditable an enterprise to be denounced as enemies of their colored brethren? Shame on the suggestion. It is true that much has been said and done in the name of colonization that cannot be justified by the true friends of the cause, but it is equally certain that for most of these objections the Colonization Society should not be held responsible.

Yours, very respectfully,

BENJ. COATS.

BRINGING SENATORS TO ACCOUNT.

We were both surprised and pained to find the names of Mr. Cockle of Peoria County and Mr. Howard of Jo Daviess recorded among the Senators who voted for the resolution approving of Douglas' proposition to violate the Missouri Compromise. Mr. Cockle we had always esteemed as an honorable gentleman and as possessed of a large share of the humanitary spirit that should characterize a true man. His constituents, too, were, we are confident, almost unanimously opposed to the scheme of Senator Douglas.—Mr. Howard also represents a constituency even more radically opposed to that scheme. The Galena Jeffersonian, which was mainly instrumental in securing Mr. Howard's election, speaks of his course in this matter thus:

"Mr. Howard may not be aware of it; but in this matter, he has set the public sentiment of his constituents at defiance. There is not a newspaper out of the six published in the four counties, that will approve his action; and if the votes of the people who elected him were to be polled, to-day, on the naked question—'Shall the Missouri Compromise be repealed?'—not 300 men could be found to say, as he has said—yes.

"We have no disposition to complain of our Senator; he probably acted up to the requirements of his conscience; but the consequences are yet to come."

The same paper further says:

"We attach no importance to the vote of the Illinois Senate on the Nebraska resolutions. It was necessary to the Administration and to Mr. Douglas, that Illinois should not assert her true opinion on the iniquity sought to be consummated; and with the patronage of the general government at their command, it was easy in such a body of pliant dough faces to get all they asked. What appliances have been used to obtain an expression in favor of the infraction of a sacred compact and the extension of Slavery into the territory which that compact shielded from its blight—we, of course, do not know. We shall watch the columns of the Washington Union anxiously, however, to see who of them are rewarded for their 'crushing out' to which they have submitted. Go you own gait, gentlemen—the people are looking on!"

THE PRINCIPLE OF SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Under this head the Galena Jeffersonian, one of the ablest Democratic papers in the State of Illinois, says, in reference to the Nebraska scheme and its defenders and apologists:

"If our disgust for the supple apologists and unscrupulous defenders of the Nebraska bill could be more profound than it now is, the pretence—pertinaciously adhered to by Senator Douglas and his followers—that the measure is but a guaranty to the people of the territory for the exercise of self-government in its highest form,—would move our very boots with loathing. It is the principle that, in defiance of Right, Democracy, Republicanism, and Religion, permits the many to trample on the few,—that introduces an unnatural relation between man and man—that makes human flesh a merchantable commodity—that uproots the marriage relation—paralyzes the industry of the country—that shuts the door against free labor, and that brings a blight, moral and physical, upon all who come within reach of its operation. How monstrous to say that this is self government—that it is the application of a cardinal doctrine of democracy. Let us suppose that the State Constitution of Nebraska should decree that every native of Virginia brought into that country, should be enslaved; with what reception would that instrument meet, when presented to Congress for its approbation? Now, however, slavery, already established, may be viewed, however much its abolition as an inexpedient measure may be dreaded—the first enslaving of a black man is a crime of no less magnitude than would be the condemnation to hopeless bondage of any white man who ever breathed; and if the Missouri Compromise is broken down, that crime will be committed in the new territory, as often as a child is born of a slave mother!—And, yet, under the sacred name of self government! Could impudence go further?"

On Wednesday, on the arrival of a long freight train on the Northern railroad at Lowell, it was discovered that one of the cars was minus wheels. It was subsequently ascertained that the accident happened at North Chelmsford, where two lengths of rails were detached from their connection.—Twenty-four cars passed over this break in safety and without attracting the notice of any one on the train! The car without wheels hung safely by the couplings.

GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

The Journal of Proceedings of the M. W. Grand Lodge of Ancient Free, and Accepted Masons of the State of Illinois, at its Fourteenth Annual Communication, held in the city of Springfield in October 1853, has been submitted to us for examination, from which we glean the following facts:

The order is in a highly flourishing condition, receiving large accessions, working in harmony to purify its ranks by wholesome discipline, and dispensing the funds established for that purpose, as well as the charities which peculiar circumstances demand, to the widow, the orphan, and the "distressed," with a liberal hand.

As affecting and interesting incident has lately come to my notice, which I will relate:

Henry D. Garrett, who was made a mason in Monmouth Lodge, No. 37, emigrated a few years since to Oregon, where he was an officer in Lafayette Lodge, under the California jurisdiction. His health failing, he emigrated to the Sandwich Islands, where he died. Before leaving Illinois, he borrowed five hundred dollars of Jacob Garrett, his father, of Fulton county; and, on his death bed, he deposited five hundred dollars with the brethren of Hawaiian Lodge, at Honolulu, with the request that it might be sent to his father. The brethren there paid the expenses of his sickness and burial, put the money to use, and upon the first opportunity, forwarded a bill of exchange upon New Bedford, to the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of California, who forwarded the same to our Grand Secretary. The bill was negotiated by Hon. James Knox, without charge; and, in July last, the sum of five hundred and fifty dollars was paid by the Grand Secretary, to Mr. Garrett; and the receipt of the same was immediately transmitted to the Grand Secretary of California. Thus, we see, that no matter where a brother may be, whether in the East or West, or in the far off isles of the ocean, he is cared for in his last moment, consoled and comforted in his last lonely journey, and his dying requests scrupulously executed by his brethren of the "mystic tie."

It is no idle boast that the embarrassments of the destitute stranger disappear before the influence of this time-honored institution.

The assertion of the unity and universality of masonry throughout the country and the world, is confirmed by the communications from different parts of the earth, which appear in these proceedings, as well as by the testimony of travelers.

The regard of the fraternity for the Holy Bible as a whole, and their determination to preserve it from change or mutilation by creeds, is evident from the following extract from the report of the committee on foreign correspondence:

"In reference to the appeal made by our Hebrew brethren to the lodges of this country, that we would dispense with the New Testament, in the administration of the masonic obligations, the committee on foreign correspondence for 1853, after arguing the question at considerable length, say:"

"It is of course settled that we cannot grant the request of our Hebrew brothers, to banish the New Testament from the altar of Masonry. We might willingly do all that charity would dictate, but it does not demand that we banish the light of the world. We cannot do this, unless we can roll back the morning sun to accommodate him who prefers the morning star or the dim twilight for his daily guide. We cannot with sacrilegious hands, thus put out the light on our altars, to accommodate visions still dim with darkness of past ages that have rejected the full-orbed sun. It would be like the attempt to banish from the world the improvements of modern art—the achievements of modern science—to annihilate steam—to abolish the printing press, and stay the lightning's rapid course. No. Our work is in another direction. It is to let the light shine—to aid men from darkness to light—to diffuse the light more and more—to reflect it in a radiant life—the outshining of a good conscience—the pure affections of a purified heart—the noble achievements of a sanctified will—an earnest life devoted to the welfare of man and the glory of God."

TO THE CORRESPONDENTS OF HENRY CLAY.

The Subscriber being now in an enlargement of his Life and Time of Henry Clay, finds on examination of Mr. Clay's papers and correspondence at Ashland, that his Private Correspondence is of material importance for a complete exhibition of his character and history, and of those portions of the history of the times with which he was connected. As Mr. Clay was not in the habit of taking copies of his own letters, they are now scattered over the country in the hands of his numerous correspondents, and have doubtless been preserved. No matter how private or even confidential the correspondence may have been, if not of a nature to render its posthumous publication improper, it is a very effective mode of illustrating character, and is often important in history. The subscriber therefore respectfully and earnestly requests all correspondents of Mr. Clay, whether in the earlier or later periods of his life, in public or in private stations, who may be in possession of original letters from Mr. Clay on any subject whatever not sacred to privacy after death, that they will be pleased, if not inconsistent with their feelings to forward such letters to the publishers of the work, A. S. Barnes & Co., 51 John St. New York; and they may be assured that the letters will be returned, or subject to their order according to instructions that may be given.

The subscriber will also be greatly obliged for any communications relating to Mr. Clay that may be thought new and important, addressed to the care of A. S. Barnes & Co., as above mentioned. As the design is to publish the work in the coming spring, it will be seen that immediate attention to this request will be necessary to make it available.

The subscriber will be greatly obliged to all Editors of Newspapers who may take sufficient interest in this notice to give it circulation.

C. COLTON.

ASHLAND, Feb. 10th, 1854.

NOT VERY ENCOURAGING.

The latest we have from Washington in reference to the Pacific Railroad, is the following from the N. Y. Courier, of the 25th:

The Senate Committee on the Pacific Railroad will hold a meeting on Monday next. The proceedings of this Committee have been much retarded by the agitation of the Nebraska bill, and if the agitators succeed in their design there will be no further use for the committee, as there will be no hope of affirmative action by the Government on any project of railroad communication with the Pacific. The plans for donations of land for three lines which was at one time virtually agreed on by a majority, is yet in suspense. A proposition to be voted upon on Monday, is one grand trunk line, from a point in the Plains beyond the frontiers of the States, direct to San Francisco, with two branches, of which the Southern will start from a place on the Mississippi, between the mouth of the Ohio and Red River, and the Northern from a point between Ohio and the town of Keokuk, Iowa.

There is no prospect whatever of any definite action on this subject during the present session. The Northern route through Utah and the Great Basin is yet unexplored. The War Department in communicating the report of Capt. Gunnison's exploration, recommended a speedy appropriation for the completion of it. But were even all the information expected to be received, now before Congress, nothing would be done.—The session is to be wasted in the [illegible] and struggle on slavery. The small remnant of it that may be left after the Nebraska bill shall have been passed or defeated, will be required for the appropriations. The country already begin to desire an adjournment, and to expect the dispersal of Congress with the same impatience that a sufferer from nightmare shrieks for the removal of the incubus which with one foul claw opens a fountain of horrors, and with the other seals the springs of life.

TO PLOW MANUFACTURERS AND FARMERS.

Here is something worthy your attention. C. W. Fillmore, of Coral, McHenry county, Illinois, has obtained Letters Patent for an improvement in hardening plows, which bids fair to bring them into exclusive use. It consists in hardening the Mould Board and Lays, so that the polish is impenetrable to gravel or grit, possessing three times the wear, and requiring but one half the draft of the unhardened plow. It also prevents all possibility of springing, cracking, or breaking in use. It is warranted to polish in any soil. Scores of the best men in McHenry county, certify that they have used them, and find them superior in polish and draft to any other steel plow in use. The difference in the cost of making is a mere trifle. This plow is sure to become a favorite in bottom and moist lands, where it is almost impossible to make the common plow run clean. The proprietor offers county, town and shop rights for sale, to those who wish to avail themselves of the improvement, on reasonable terms.

Farmers should immediately secure one of these plows for their spring's work. Address C. W. Fillmore, Coral, McHenry county, Illinois.—Elgin Palladium.

☞ A singular wedding came off at Hightstown last week. The Monmouth Democrat says that a blooming young damsel had no less than five suitors for her hand, to each of whom she engaged herself to marry on a certain day. The time fixed upon came around, and all the lads were on hand, and the magistrate who was to perform the ceremony was present. The maiden had not made up her mind fully as to who should be made her happy lord, when the magistrate requested the couple to stand up. As if driven to desperation, she bounced on her feet, gave one of the "boys" a nudge with her foot, and before the others had recovered from their astonishment the knot was tied. The scene that ensued is said to have been peculiarly interesting.

HOSMER'S POEMS.

W. H. C. Hosmer, Esq., of New York, who delivered the concluding lecture before the Young Men's Association, in this city on Thursday evening last, is preparing a selection from his Poems for publication. We are informed that the work will be issued from the press of Redfield & Co., in New York, in a few weeks. To give our readers an idea of the merits of the volume, we copy the following passages from the New York Evening Post, taken from a Poem entitled "The Ideal." It is as beautiful a poetic wreath as has been laid on Keats' grave:

KEATS.

There is a flower of glorious aspect,
That opens in the dusk of lonely night,
And, ere the morning lark begins her carol,
Is sadly touched with blight.

The honey of its cup is never tasted
By bee or humming-bird. Gay spirits of air!
Why on the solemn darkness is thus wasted
A loveliness so rare?

Type of that flower was Keats, the young and gifted,
Charming with magic odd and thankless world,
While the black clouds of woe above him drifted,
And Hope her banner furled.

The light of fame at last, through darkness streaming,
Came falling not upon his living head,
But, like some funeral torch, a fitful gleaming
Gave only to the dead.

Here is a graceful thought, finely turned:

IMAGINATION.

The Queen of Beauty and her blushing daughters
In Grote is bathed, that old poetic stream!
And each dark ringlet from the flashing waters
Imbibed an amber gleam.

Thus thoughts, that send, and will send on forever,
From the dim plains of Long Ago a light,
Caught from imagination's golden river
Their glow divinely bright.

Another, from the poem entitled "The Months."

SHAKSPEARE AND APRIL.

Earth's incarnate bard in other years,
Warmed into being by thy breath,
Drank from the cup of sun lit tears,
And learned thy spell to conquer death.
The light and shadows of thy face,
Upon his pictured leaves we trace—
Thy humors quaint and wild;
The [illegible] of rain heard
His awful vivifying word,
And like thy landscape smiled.

Not less fanciful is this which follows:

JULY AND JULIUS.

Month of heroic thought, July!
I love thy hot, embrowning ray—
The fleecy cloudlets of thy sky,
The gorgeous ending of thy day.
Well art thou named—for did not he
Derive his force and fire from thee,
Whose legions tamed the world?
Famed in his glance thy levin red,
Timed by thy thunder was his tread
With Rome's old flag unfurled.

The Voice of Indiana.—The Indiana House of Representatives has passed to a third reading the resolutions protesting against the violation of the Missouri Compromise. In the course of the debate, one of the members, Mr. Remmington, said that "the name of Stephen A. Douglas would appear in future history among politicians as that of Benedict Arnold among soldiers." Another, Mr. Scott, called upon any one "who knew any good of Douglas—of any important service he had rendered the country—to state it."

☞ The Chicago Tribune says, one of the most active men in getting up the Missouri Compromise repeal meeting in that city, was an old abolitionist, who has always been opposed to all compromises. He urges and argues in favor of the Nebraska bill in order to get up slavery agitation. That will do it most effectually.—We ask the genuine friends of the Whig and Democratic platforms to mark these agitators, and remember them hereafter.—Ohio State Journal.

We have not the slightest remembrance of ever having made such a statement, and think that it will puzzle the Journal to point out the paper in which such a remark was made. So far from the Nebraska agitation in this city being the work of any one man, or set of men, it was the unanimous expression of the outraged feeling of the community, rising up in determined opposition to the infamous fraud which the Senator who misrepresents us in Congress, has been endeavoring to perpetrate. Will the Journal please to correct its mis-statement?

CONSOLIDATION.

We hear a great deal in these days of Consolidation. The most recent case we have heard of, is that of the consolidation of the underground with the above ground Railroad. A few days since a young colored woman, with her child, fugitives, on their arrival at Cleveland, took the train for this place. Hardly had she got seated in the emigrant cars before she saw her master and his friends in fierce pursuit, about to take the same train. She was very quietly kept secreted among the emigrants until she arrived here on the opposite of the river. She was secreted of course, until her master had embarked in the ferry boat. She then hastened to the village below, and across the river on the ice. Her friends took charge of her, and kept watch of the "chivalrous Soutrons." They started for Detroit, and thence to Chicago. In the meantime the colored lady in question was entertained by her colored friends about town.—She was well provided for and sufficient clothes and money were procured. She seemed to be of aristocratic lineage. Her hands and feet were too small for old shoes and gloves. No shoes would fit except "fours." At length, well advised by the managers of the underground road, of what had become of the pursuer, that he had gone to Chicago, the heroine of the tale, hurried to Detroit and was soon placed safely on the opposite bank. In a few days, the master was seen in town wending his way quietly towards old Kentuck, yet unconscious that he had travelled on the same train of cars as his runaway slave nearly an hundred miles, an that there was fixed upon him all the time after he left Cleveland an hundred eyes watching his movements.

The Erie papers are "going it with a rush." On Monday morning last, Superintendent G. C. Dennis, was arrested while in that mob-ridden borough, taken before that pink and paragon of dispensers of the law, Justice Laird, and bound over on a charge of attempting to discharge a pistol, during the late riots at Harbor Creek. This same Laird is the same sapient Justice who set aside an injunction issued by the Supreme Court of the United States, on the ground that the Court lacked jurisdiction.—Rough Notes.

DR. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS

☞ Are ranked among the most popular remedies of the day. That it will cure liver complaint, sick headache, and dyspepsia, is now beyond a doubt. Read the following testimony from a well known lady and gentleman of our own city.

New York, August 5, 1852.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams, No. [illegible] Seventh street, testify that they have both been suffering with the liver complaint for about five years, during which time they have spent a large amount of money and tried many remedies, but to no purpose. Finally, hearing of Dr. McLane's Pills, they purchased four boxes, which they took according to the directions accompanying each box, and now pronounce themselves perfectly cured of that distressing disease.

P.S. Dr. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills, also Dr. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge, can now be had at all the respectable Drug Stores in this city.

☞ Purchasers will please be careful to ask for, and take none but Dr. McLane's Vermifuge and Liver Pills.—All others, in comparison, are worthless.

Most Important Announcement.

RETIREMENT OF

PROFESSOR JAS. McCLINTOCK, M. D.

FROM THE PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL COLLEGE.

☞ The undersigned have the pleasure of informing the public that they have made arrangements with the eminent Professor James McClintock, M. D., of Philadelphia, known for more than a quarter of a century past as one of the greatest Practitioners and Teachers of Medicine and Surgery in this country or in Europe, for the preparation of his long celebrated Family Medicines.

These remedies embrace some of the most valuable discoveries and combinations ever known for the cure of disease. They are the fruits of the most profound investigation, the widest research, and the most unequalled experience of one of the first physicians of the age. Each remedy is especially adapted to some particular form of disease, in accordance with the highest principles of modern medical science. Each of these remedies has been tried, improved and finally perfected, in the course of a long, active and highly successful practice, not only in Philadelphia, but throughout many distant sections of the country to which his great reputation has called him. Their nature and effect are known and approved of by hundreds of regular physicians who have been his students, and seen their beneficial results in Dr. McClintock's own hands while they were under his tuition, in the Colleges of Philadelphia, Castleton, Pittsfield and elsewhere.

The Philadelphia Sun remarks: "Eminently successful in his private practice, extensively known for his medical erudition, and as the instructor of more medical students than perhaps any other man in the Union, Dr. McClintock is just the person whose experience and reputation will beget that complete confidence in the public mind which will relieve his medicines from all suspicion of empiricism, and carry them into every house as a blessing."

Read the following Certificate:

This is to certify, that I have placed in the hands of Messrs. A. Cushman & Co., New York, the "recipes of my Family Medicines," with my full authority to prepare and offer them for popular use. They are such as I have been in the habit of recommending and prescribing for many years, and their composition is well known to hundreds of regular physicians, who have been my students, and who are many of them now practicing with distinguished success in all parts of the country. In securing the co-operation of Mr. Alex. Cushman, who is a thoroughly educated Chemist, and practical Apothecary of many years' experience, I am enabled to assure the public that they will be prepared in the best, purest and most perfect form, regardless of expense.

JAMES McCLINTOCK, M. D., Late Professor of Anatomy and Surgery in the Philadelphia College of Medicine, and Founder of the same; one of the Consulting Physicians of the Philadelphia Hospital, Blockley; late member of the National Medical Association, member of the Philadelphia Medical Society, Member of the Medico-Chirurgical College of Philadelphia; formerly President and Professor of Anatomy and Surgery in Castleton Medical College, Vermont; and also late Professor of Anatomy and Physiology in Berkshire Medical Institution, Mass., &c. &c. &c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, Friday, March 3—7 P. M.

The market continues in an easy condition, and operations are scarce. "Ain't doing anything," seems to be a common complaint, and in such a state of affairs market figures may be quoted as "in demand." Prices for all staples of grain remain as previously mentioned, and receipts are rather limited. Scarcely anything comes forward by teams, the almost impassable condition of the roads not tending to increase receipts. Pork finds a very dull sale, packers have generally withdrawn from the market. Small lots are urged upon buyers at prices ranging from $4 to $4.7 ⅌ 100 lbs.

LOCAL MATTERS.

MASS MEETING.

There will be a grand Temperance Rally at South Market Hall this evening, commencing at 7 o'clock. There will be present some prominent Temperance speakers from abroad.

THE BLAKELY FAMILY.

This talented company will appear this evening, at Tremont Hall. Their fame will unquestionably draw a full house to greet them, after an absence from this city of about two years.—The troupe has traveled in all the States, and have uniformly been received with high favor, and gained many handsome notices from the press. We select the following from a Rochester paper, as an illustration of the manner in which they please an audience:

As a corps, and as individual vocalists and instrumentalists, we can say with confidence that they far surpass any company that has yet visited our city. The ladies are pleasing and intellectual; and have voices of a peculiar power, richness and sweetness, and managed with admirable skill; the tenor is soft and mellow; while the basso possesses that full and massive depth of tone that rouses the soul to admiration and touches the deepest recesses of the heart. The instrumental performances were of the highest order, especially the solo-violin. The constant variety made the entertainment pleasing to every diversity of taste. To particularize where all was perfect appears invidious; yet "those evening bells," seem to chime their sweetly tolling strains as we write, and the "young widow" still bewitches with archness of manner and sprightliness of song. But the closing performance was a beautiful combination of all that is sweet, touching, tender and pathetic. It was like a prayer vibrating on the portals of heaven, supplicating audience of the ear of the Eternal; and yet it possessed all the majesty and sweetness, grandeur and power that music can give to the sublime and the beautiful.

FIRE.

A fire broke out yesterday forenoon in the two story frame building, known as No. 62 North Clark street. The basement was occupied as a German beer saloon, and in the second story resided a family. The fire is supposed to have caught from the chimney, and as the building was surrounded very closely by other wooden tenements, and a high wind blowing at the time, it was feared that a serious conflagration might occur. The Fire Department, however, were promptly on the ground, and the supply of water from the hydrants being ample, the fire was subdued very speedily, the damage being entirely confined to the upper portions of the building where it originated, which was injured to the amount of between $200 and $300. It belonged to a Mrs. King, who resides in New York city, and was fully insured.

FIRE!—A fire broke out last night, about 15 minutes after 9 o'clock, in the old wooden building, 136 Lake street,—Northwest corner of Lake and LaSalle—and before the engines could be got on the ground, the building was completely enveloped in flames, and several of the adjoining frame buildings were on fire. The buildings were old, as dry as tinder, and the firemen could do little beyond keeping the flames in check so as to permit the removal of the clothing, trunks and other personal property which was in them. The only building saved between the corner and Keene's Bookstore, was the one occupied by Messrs. Keenes & Thomas, Merchant Tailors, and that was badly damaged. The loss of the buildings did not cover over $800, as they were old and were all to be removed in a few days to give room for a magnificent block which is to be put up from Keene's Bookstore to the corner, by Messrs. Price, Magie, Scammon & [illegible] and the Marine Bank. The loss in personal property was not large, probably $3,000 or $5,000. We understand that there was little or no insurance upon either buildings or merchandise.

THE ROBBERY CASE.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—In your report of the examination lately had before Justices Rucker and Milliken, you say, that "a number of Carpet bags were found on Maton's premises, concealed in a bed, some of which had been unlocked and others rifled without the trouble of breaking the locks." As this statement is calculated to mislead the public, allow me to say that the carpet bags were not found by the officers hidden in a bed, or in any other way; that there was nothing to show that they had been improperly opened; but it was distinctly shown, that a part of them had come into his possession lawfully, by being left by people who had stayed at his house unable to pay their bills,—Mr. Maton having been a public Inn-keeper in this city for some time.

Please to correct the error by inserting this in your paper. Respectfully,

A. W. WINDETT,
Counsel for Mr. Maton.

We insert the above, by request of its author. If the carpet bags were not found concealed in the bed, as we stated, the watch and bank bills stolen from Mr. Berry were found by Capt. Nichols, of the Police, hidden between the sheets, and it is a subject of little difference which was found concealed therein—the carpet bags or the watch and money—as the nature of the articles can be the only disputed point. The same suspicion is attached to Mr. Maton, and the facts as stated at the examination were too plain to stamp Mr. Windett's client as being an uninterested party in the robbery. The fact of the carpet bags being found on Mr. Maton's premises is of itself enough to place him in an uncomfortable position, as nearly all of them bore marks of having been forcibly opened; and several were lightened of their contents without even hurting the locks. Such could hardly have been the case, had the carpet bags been left by travelers as security for their board bills.—ED. TRIBUNE.

POLICE COURT.

Before Judge RUCKER.—Friday morning, March 3.

Ellen Fox was the first candidate on the books. She is decidedly an "old fogy" on the drunken list, and was disposed of by a fine of $3 and a ticket for thirty days in the Bridewell.

Lawrence McCudden, always manages to get into confinement just previous to election. He is a hard subject for the Temperance Society to operate with, and the Bridewell furnishes the best possible pledge he can live up to. Fined $5, and "sent up" to work it out.

John Nugent, came into the city from the upper country, got on a spree, and smashed the windows of a saloon; for all of which he was fined $12 and costs. Sent to the Bridewell to work out the amount.

Michael Jones, a young man, but nevertheless "a hard ticket." When in a sober state, he is described as one disposed to work, and behave himself well; but when under the influence of liquor, he abuses his mother, and the rest of the family, making home hideous. A fine of $10 and costs will keep him at work in the Bridewell upwards of three weeks.

John C. McDonald was brought up for committing an alleged robbery of about $95 from Charles Follansbee, of Guyandotte, Virginia, who was stopping at Doty's Hotel. The two were together nearly all of Thursday, and at 9 o'clock that evening went to their room at the Hotel, the two sleeping together. Mr. Follansbee, when he retired, had $60 in eagles in his vest lining; and about $35 in paper money in his pantaloons pocket, also two notes, dated in June last, at Guyandotte, Virginia—one for $100, signed H. H. Miller; the other for [illegible], signed by Elijah R. Richards. A receipt for $66 60, from Andrew R. Newell, of Franklin, Illinois, was with the notes. All the bank bills, the notes, receipt and a ten dollar gold piece, were stolen before he rose the next morning. The theft was charged on to McDonald, and while he was being escorted up stairs, for the purpose of being searched, he managed to drop the gold piece, which was discovered by Mr. Doty, and the offender immediately handed over to the police. McDonald was committed to jail in default of $600 bail, to take his trial at the approaching term of the Recorder's Court.

NAVIGATION OPEN.—Judge Fuller informs us that both light houses will be lighted every night during the remainder of the season, commencing last evening. Navigation may be considered fully open on the Lake.

THEATRE.—To-night the engagement of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence closes, and they take their last benefit, and temporary farewell of Chicago. The engagement which they have just been playing has been the most successful one which we have ever known to have been performed in Mr. Rice's Theatre. For the twelve nights of its continuance the house has been crowded; on several occasions the sale of tickets has been stopped, and on every night the audience have gone away delighted. Mr. Florence is certainly the best Irish comedian of whom we have any knowledge. His brogue is far more rich and genuine than that of Barney Williams, and he never for a moment looses sight of it when on the stage. He is not only "a fellow of infinite jest and humor," but also is possessed of a rare sensibility and pathos which are quite irresistible. In some of his more elaborate plays, he produces effects upon the audience which a great tragedian might well be proud of. He is not only an actor, but an author of no little promise, and several of his best plays are from his own pen. Although quite young, he has acquired an already brilliant fame, and although his modesty and retiring disposition will prevent him from ever sounding his own praises, his numerous friends and admirers will always blow his trumpet for him. Mrs. Florence, his lady, is indeed a helpmeet for him, and is an especial favorite with Chicago. She is an admirable Yankee comedienne, a superb dancer, and an inimitable Dutch frow. One of her pieces, "Mischievous Annie," was repeated here for six nights in succession, and was as warmly received upon its last night, as upon its first representation.

Mr. and Mrs. Florence go from here to Detroit, where they play a brief engagement.

Mr. Couldock opens on Monday night. He will be certain to be warmly received.

The bill which Mr. and Mrs. Florence present for their last appearance to-night is a very attractive one, and the mere announcement of the repetition of Florence's burletta, "Florence worried by McVicker," is of itself sufficient to draw a jam.

GRAND JUVENILE CONCERT.

Notwithstanding the very inclement weather of Thursday evening a very respectable audience assembled at the juvenile concert given on that night, at Warner's Hall, by the pupils of Mr. Dye. The performances were very excellent, and, we believe, met with the entire approbation of the audience.

There will be an examination this afternoon at 2 o'clock, of the classes, at the same Hall, commencing at 2 o'clock, and consisting of Piano Solos and Duets, Black board exercises, and singing New Music by Sight; and will be free for all to attend. The second concert will take place this evening, at 7½ o'clock.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

Rev. Mr. Barrett, whom ill health prevented from lecturing last Sabbath evening, will give the first of the promised series of discourses concerning Hell, at the New Church Rooms, to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Rev. R. H. Richardson will preach in the North Presbyterian Church to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 10½ o'clock. Subject, "The Nebraska Territorial Bill."

ELECTION TICKETS.

Candidates who want Election Tickets, had better not delay their orders beyond to-day.—By Monday, there will be but little chance of getting supplied. As many candidates are frequently defeated, merely for the want of tickets to place in the hands of voters, it would be well for them to look to this.

MARINE.—The steamer Fashion left at 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon for Two Rivers, with a fair load of freight and passengers. The Pacific had not arrived from Milwaukee at 7 o'clock last evening, but she is advertised to leave on her return trip at 8 o'clock this morning.

OFFICE GALENA AND CHICAGO U. R. R. Co. }

EDITORS DAILY TRIBUNE: You will please correct a statement appearing in your paper of to-day, taken from the Journal of yesterday, that this Company had contracted for the erection of certain buildings at Chicago. We are now preparing plans for additional freight houses—one 240 by 75 and one 220 by 60 feet on the ground, and an addition to our engine buildings. When these plans are matured, (which will be in a few days,) public notice will be given and proposals solicited for furnishing the materials and constructing the same.

Your obedient servant,
J. VAN NORTWICK.
